

COMMUNITIES AS A PART OF SUSTAINABLE RURAL TOURISM - Success factor or inevitable burden?

10th-11th OF SEPTEMBER 2013, KOTKA, FINLAND

The international conference aims to provide latest information and practical experiences on community based sustainable tourism. The presentations highlight e.g. how the communities can be successfully included to sustainable rural tourism development, what are the benefits and practical level challenges.

The conference is targeted to community facilitators and developers, Leader-LAGs, researchers, business advisors, entrepreneurs, administrators and policy makers related to the topic.

The conference is also launching the Call for Papers in December 2012. The interested parties are encouraged to submit either scientific or practical orientated papers.

For further information on the conference, please follow up our web pages at www.seprat.net/seminar2013

The conference is organized in joint co-operation of COMCOT-network, Rural Network, Leader Network, Development Association Sepra, Estonian University of Life Sciences and University of Helsinki.
